Crop Inspections Scheduled For Area Tobacco

All tobacco grown in Appomattox County will be considered as burley tobacco unless producers obtain a certification from the agricultural marketing service (AMS) showing that the tobacco is another kind, says J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. County and State ASC Committees will review AMS certifications to insure the tobacco marketed was that inspected by AMS.

Mr. Alvis explained that all tobacco at auction markets will be graded by AMS and classified as to kind and grade before the sale begins. Any tobacco represented as Maryland but later found to be burley will be deducted from the marketing quota for the farm, Sixty-one cents per pound of tobacco will be deducted if the farm does not have a burley quota.

For tobacco that will not be sold at auction, producers may pay AMS tobacco graders for inspection and classification service at cost. ASCS activities are open to all farmers regardless of race, creed, sex or national origin. Any tobacco producer in Appomattox county can apply for AMS inspection service on his crop, Mr. Alvis said.

Growers producing Maryland tobacco may contact the County Agricultural Extension Service for the best cultural harvesting and curing practices to follow for growing Maryland tobacco. Since climate and soil types do influence tobacco production, tobacco produced from Maryland seed or plants may become classified as a quota kind. Therefore, growers should keep each kind of tobacco separate in the production, harvesting, curing and marketing processes, the Chairman said.

He explained the purpose of these requirements is to insure that each pound of burley tobacco is properly identified by a marketing card.

Growers producing Maryland tobacco may contact the Appomattox County ASCS Office for further details, Mr. Alvis said.

COMPENSATION FOR UNEMPLOYED VICTIMS OF RECENT FLOODS

Persons Unemployed by flood have until August 4, 1972, to file Claims for Disaster Unemployment Assistance Persons who work or live in Appomattox County, and who became unemployed or lost time from work as a result of the recent flooding have until August 4, 1972 to apply for Disaster Unemployment Assistance.

Mrs. Kate W. Hamilton, Manager of the Lynchburg Office of the Virginia Employment Commission said today that claims for disaster unemployment benefits must be filed with the unemployment insurance division of her office by August 4.

Persons who became unemployed or lose time from work because of an officially declared disaster have 30 days from the date that the Disaster Unemployment Assistance Program is announced to file their claims Mrs. Hamilton explained. The DUA program was officially announced by Gov. Linwood Holton on June 26 for the first group of 25 counties and 24 cities in Virginia to be designated as disaster areas.

"We estimated that about 2,000 persons in the initial disaster area served by the Lynchburg VEC office might be eligible for disaster benefits. As of Friday, July 14th, we have taken approximately 150 claims," Mrs. Hamilton said. "We urge persons who became unemployed because of the flood, even if it was temporary, to contact us to determine their eligibility for disaster benefits," she added.

The disaster benefits are different from regular unemployment insurance benefits. Many individuals who are not eligible for unemployment insurance can quality for disaster benefits, Mrs. Hamilton said. Persons in the category include farmers and farm workers, self-employed persons and persons who work for employers who are not covered by unemployment insurance taxes.

Spring Mill Damaged By Flood

Spring Mill Museum is still open for business even though the high waters of the recent flood reached a three-foot level on the first floor of the mill. The force of the waters knocked down a large portion of the rock foundation as can be seen in the picture above. According to Robert Gage, co-owner of the Museum, you could easily tell in advance that the water was continuing to rise and would most likely come into the building so all antiques and stock from the gift shop were moved to a safe place, thus avoiding damage to these items. Other than losing a portion of the rock foundation, a foot bridge was lost in the water said to be at the highest level ever at Spring Mill.

Red Cross Short Of Flood Relief Quota

Contributions of $160,00 have been received by the local Red Cross Chapter toward the quota of $240.00 for relief of flood victims in the June flooding of 12 states, according to chapter chairman, William A. Hunter.

Appomattox County flood victims have received aid from the National Red Cross Chapter in the amount of $655,00 to date to compensate for some losses due to recent floods.

Contributions are urgently requested to help the local chapter go over its goal to help meet the National emergency.

A telegram from Red Cross President George M. Elsey to area and division managers stressed that the latest assessment of Red Cross commitments is to the victims of June flooding in a total of 12 states indicates that over 50,000 families will need Red Cross assistance at a cost now estimated to exceed $15 million. Although the organization's previously announced campaign for $10 million for disaster relief will not be formally increased, it is now essential that this campaign be substantially oversubscribed. Chapters throughout the Eastern Area must contact their local United Way, corporations, foundations, big givers and the general public for maximum assistance based upon the real need and overall campaign requirements rather than upon individual chapter quotas alone. Chapters are requested to report contributions promptly, particularly major givers, in order that the Red Cross national Office of Members and Funds can provide up-to-date information as a guideline for pace setting gifts from other corporations, foundations, and major givers.
